Deaf, Deafblind, and Hard of Hearing Mental Health Services

Serving Children and Adolescents in Greater Minnesota

Culturally Affirmative Mental Health Services

TSA Therapists working in the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Program have comprehensive knowledge of the specific mental, physical, and communication needs of children (ages birth to 22) who are deaf, deafblind, or hard of hearing. They understand how these needs may influence behavior, social relationships, family life, and school performance. The therapists are familiar with Deaf culture and they are fluent in ASL.

Services are typically provided at the child's school or home. TSA therapists collaborate with local service providers, which allows the therapists access to settings such as community or mental health centers, education offices, libraries, and churches.

Additionally, services are available in our offices in Duluth and Moorhead.

Telehealth video conferencing is also available.
